Section 9

Economic and social affairs

(Programme 7 of the medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005)

Overview

- 9.1 The programme of work under this section falls within the framework of programme 7 of the revised medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005 and will be implemented by the Department of Economic and Social Affairs.
- 9.2 In its resolution 57/282 (sect. I, para. 4), the General Assembly noted the recommendations of the Committee for Programme and Coordination that the Secretary-General submit proposals for revisions to programme 7, Economic and social affairs, of the medium-term plan so as to reflect the review by the General Assembly at its fifty-seventh session of the outcome of the International Conference on Financing for Development and the World Summit on Sustainable Development and requested the Secretary-General to submit those proposals through the Committee for Programme and Coordination at its forty-third session for consideration by the Assembly at its fifty-eighth session. In section I, paragraph 6, of the same resolution, the Assembly requested the Secretary-General, bearing in mind that the lack of time precluded further revisions to the medium-term plan at the fifty-seventh session, to prepare the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2004-2005 for programme 7 of the medium-term plan in line with the recommendations of the Committee for Programme and Coordination at its forty-second session and other relevant legislative mandates. Pursuant to these requests, revisions to programme 7 of the medium-term plan are submitted to the General Assembly at its fifty-eighth session through the Committee for Programme and Coordination, and the programme of work described below has been prepared within the framework of the revisions.
- 9.3 The overall orientation of the programme is to reinforce international cooperation for development in the pursuit of poverty eradication, sustained economic growth and sustainable development. In recent years, new challenges have arisen for international cooperation for development. The disparate impacts of globalization and the difficulties that developing countries continue to face in responding to a tide of forces far beyond their control have further strengthened the case for far-sighted multilateral cooperation that addresses long-standing development problems and enables developing countries to seize the new opportunities for development that globalization offers. The realization is also growing that immediate political and humanitarian problems should not be allowed to draw attention away from long-term development objectives, and that only by addressing the root economic and social causes underlying those crises will the international community find durable solutions that will prevent their recurrence.
- 9.4 United Nations conferences and summits of the nineties, namely, the Millennium Summit, the Monterrey International Conference on Financing for Development and the World Summit for Sustainable Development, have provided a comprehensive framework to guide a renewed effort by the international community to bring about an enabling environment geared towards poverty eradication, sustained economic growth and sustainable development. Achieving greater policy coherence at the national and international levels is key to this effort. In turn, supporting this greater coherence will be a crucial dimension of the drive to promote an effective implementation of the outcomes of these conferences and summits — a drive that will be the major focus of the economic and social work of the United Nations in the next biennium. Thus, the focus on the implementation of the outcomes of the conferences and summits, and the shifts in programme orientations and working methods that it implies, will be the defining characteristics of the programme of work of the Department for the biennium 2004-2005 and of the programme's relationship with those of other United Nations economic and social entities and the wider United Nations system.

- 9.5 In pursuing and supporting the implementation of agreed development goals, special attention will be given to advancing the development goals embodied in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and related elements of the programmes of action of international conferences within the purview of the Department, and to promoting an effective follow-up of the International Conference on Financing for Development and the World Summit for Sustainable Development. The mandates and priorities emerging from these conferences and the need to support the calls by the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly for an integrated and coordinated follow-up to and implementation of United Nations conferences and summits imply enhanced responsibilities for the programme, including the requirement to provide Member States with macroeconomic analyses and statistical and demographic analysis and information that can support coherent and effective policy formulation and implementation and assist the international community in concerting its overall implementation effort.
- 9.6 In line with the renewed emphasis on implementation, the Department's policy advisory services, supplemented by research and training, will support the efforts of Governments, at their request and in accordance with their national policies, to formulate development strategies and build national capacities aimed at the promotion of sustained economic growth and sustainable development, in accordance with the relevant resolutions of the General Assembly and United Nations conferences. The Department's policy advisory services will be further coordinated with the activities of other programmes, funds and entities of the United Nations at the country level within the context of the United Nations resident coordinator system and the United Nations Development Assistance Framework. The outcomes of policy advisory services will also serve to enrich the analytical work conducted by the Department.
- 9.7 In the context of the preparation of the present programme budget proposals, the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs, convened by the Under-Secretary-General for Economic and Social Affairs, undertook a collaborative programmatic review exercise within 10 clusters of activities that encompassed the totality of the proposed economic and social programme activities covered in the programme budget. The review confirmed that entities of the Executive Committee have a largely common assessment of Member States' expectations and of challenges ahead and emerging priorities. It helped to promote a culture of cooperation and a common understanding of the United Nations contribution in the economic and social areas and provided an additional instrument for senior management in the different United Nations entities to encourage a greater alignment of activities to reflect the priorities of the Millennium Declaration and the global conferences and summits. As a result, United Nations economic and social entities gained greater awareness of each other's work, especially regarding the need for greater collaboration between global and regional entities, and a better sense of the place of each in the total effort. The exercise, in addition to contributing to the coherence of the proposed activities included in the current programme budget, should lead to more systematic collaboration and greater overall effectiveness in their implementation.
- 9.8 The activities to be carried out by the Department reflect the responsibility of the Secretariat for providing substantive support to the General Assembly, in particular the Second and Third Committees, the Economic and Social Council and relevant subsidiary bodies, pursuant to their resolutions and decisions on international economic cooperation, and within the framework of the renewed emphasis placed by those bodies on the integrated and coordinated follow-up and implementation of United Nations conferences.

- 9.9 The Department will also continue to assist, in this context, the Secretary-General in enhancing policy coherence in the management of the economic and social activities of the United Nations and in promoting policy and programme coordination among organizations of the United Nations system. The Department will seek to enhance the support it provides to the Under-Secretary-General for Economic and Social Affairs in his role as convenor of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs, and as programme manager of the Development Account, and in strengthening collaboration with the wider United Nations system.
- 9.10 In line with the indications contained in the Secretary-General's report on strengthening of the United Nations: an agenda for further change (A/57/387) and General Assembly resolution 57/300, the proposed programme contains a number of significant changes, in keeping with the priorities reflected in the revised medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005 aimed at aligning activities and resources to the priorities of the Millennium Declaration, and the outcomes of the major international conferences, and reflecting a renewed emphasis on advancing their integrated implementation.
- 9.11 The realignment is aimed at enhancing the Department's leadership with regard to development policy and to advancing the Secretary-General's objective of reinforcing the Department's capacity to manage the wide breadth of subject areas and responsibilities entrusted to it. An important feature of the realignment is the configuration of three central offices reporting directly to the Under-Secretary-General. This is geared to strengthening the direct support that the head of the Department receives, both in the exercise of his policy coordination functions vis-à-vis the central intergovernmental bodies and in his interface with the Office of the Secretary-General and heads of United Nations programmes and entities, particularly in the context of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs. The three offices have distinct but mutually reinforcing responsibilities, as set out below:
- (a) A new Development Policy and Planning Office is designed to integrate substantive capacity for development analysis and policy advice with the function of strategic planning and of building policy coherence within the Department and throughout the economic and social sectors, in line with action 17 of the report of the Secretary-General. The Development Policy and Planning Office is responsible for cross-sectoral analysis of development policy, including responsibility for key policy and parliamentary documents on broad development issues. In addition, the Office will provide intradepartmental and intra-Secretariat policy coordination and interface, including serving as the substantive secretariat for the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs, and will ensure closer interaction with the United Nations Development Group, the Executive Committee on Peace and Security and other Secretariat groups dealing with development, peace and security issues. Another important task of the Office will be to assist in coordinating the production of the Department's flagship publications, drawing on the Department's collective competencies in different spheres and collaborative arrangements among staff from various of its divisions;
 - (b) A new Financing for Development Office (in line with General Assembly resolutions 57/272 and 57/273) provides a dedicated capacity for the follow-up to the International Conference on Financing for Development, and finance aspects of other major United Nations conferences, and for collaboration with institutional and other stakeholders. It serves as a focal point within the United Nations Secretariat for overall implementation of the Monterrey Consensus, provides secretariat support for related intergovernmental processes, and consolidates the Department's work on issues of development finance, including taxation;
 - (c) An Office for Economic and Social Council Support and Coordination (formerly the Division for Economic and Social Council Support and Policy Coordination) will continue to contribute to central policy coordination and will focus on steering and supporting the intergovernmental and related inter-agency processes under way to advance an integrated follow-up to the global conferences.

- 9.12 The Assistant Secretary-General, Special Adviser on Gender Issues and Advancement of Women, in addition to exercising her system-wide responsibilities on gender issues, including the progress made by the United Nations Secretariat and the secretariats of the United Nations system in mainstreaming a gender perspective in every sector, improving the status of women in the United Nations Secretariat and reporting in that capacity directly to the Secretary-General, will continue to oversee the Division on the Advancement of Women and guide gender mainstreaming in the work of the Department.
- 9.13 The other substantive divisions of the Department will be reorganized into two clusters, each reporting to an Assistant Secretary-General and focusing, respectively, on data analysis and information and on support for intergovernmental processes in the functional areas covered by the Department and related operational responsibilities. The clustering of divisions under the Assistant Secretaries-General is, together with the three central offices referred to above, an integral part of the effort to strengthen management and policy coherence within the Department and its impact on furthering the integrated implementation of relevant aspects of the Millennium Declaration and international conferences. The Assistant Secretaries-General will work closely with the three central offices in the exercise of both their policy development and management responsibilities.
- 9.14 The first cluster headed by a new Assistant Secretary-General post, to be created, in line with action 16 of the Secretary General's report on strengthening of the United Nations: an agenda for change, will comprise an Economic Monitoring and Assessment Unit (drawn from the current Division for Development Policy Analysis), the Statistics Division, and the Population Division. The second cluster, headed by the existing Assistant Secretary-General, who also serves as Secretary of the Chief Executive Board and oversees the overall coordination of technical cooperation activities, will include the Division for Sustainable Development, the secretariat of the United Nations Forum on Forests, the Division for Social Policy and Development (including the new secretariat of the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues) and the Division for Public Administration and Development Management (formerly, the Division for Public Economics and Public Administration).
- 9.15 As part of the effort to enhance the Department's capacity, through the first cluster, for monitoring and assessment, the support that the Statistics Division provides to the global monitoring of the development goals embodied in the Millennium Declaration will be reinforced. In line with paragraph 39 of the Secretary-General's report on reform regarding the growing importance of international migration in addressing the implications of globalization, the capacities of the Population Division for monitoring trends and policy analysis in this field will be strengthened.
- 9.16 In relation to the second cluster, the outcome of the recently held World Summit on Sustainable Development and the focus on implementation in the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation will be guiding the work of the Department in these areas. Organizational and programmatic implications are expected to be further clarified at the eleventh session of the Commission on Sustainable Development. In line with the need to enhance the implementation of the Summit's outcomes at the national level, this will remain one of two areas of greater concentration for advisory services and related support activities in the Department. In particular, the Division for Sustainable Development hosts a significant capacity for advisory services in the areas of water, energy and strategies for sustainable development, which will be fully integrated with the overall work of the Division for the follow-up to the plan of implementation.

- 9.17 Another area of concentration for advisory services and activities is being established in the Division for Public Administration and Development Management (formerly, the Division for Public Economics and Public Administration), where there will be a more selective and, at the same time, more integrated approach to the extension of support to developing countries in the management of their development processes, including integrated support for economic as well as social governance and e-government.
- 9.18 The Division for Social Policy and Development, in turn, will deepen its capacity for policy and substantive support to the Commission for Social Development, including a more integrated approach to social inclusion. In the same context, and as highlighted in paragraph 39 of the report of the Secretary-General, there is need, as mandated by the Second World Assembly on Ageing, held in Madrid, to strengthen United Nations work on ageing. For this purpose, a modest redeployment of staff resources from other subprogrammes to this Division for work in this area has been proposed. Work on disability will likewise be reinforced.
- 9.19 In addition, as proposed by the General Assembly in its resolution 57/191, a secretariat of the United Nations Forum on Indigenous Issues has been created within the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, reporting to the Director of the Division for Social Policy and Development.
- 9.20 One of the priorities of the Organization, particularly in the context of the implementation of the major global conferences and the Millennium Development Goals, is a strengthening of interfaces with civil society. The Department intends to contribute to this effort, not only by developing more effective modalities for the involvement of civil society in intergovernmental processes, but also by ensuring that the engagement of different divisions of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs with non-governmental organizations and civil society is rationalized and better coordinated.
- 9.21 Included in the proposals are non-recurrent resource requirements relating to the anticipated review and appraisal of the implementation of the follow-up to the Fourth World Conference on Women. With regard to the follow-up to the International Conference on Population and Development, the World Summit for Social Development and the twenty-fourth special session of the General Assembly, the intergovernmental process has not as yet pronounced itself. In the event that decisions are taken in this regard that impact the programme of work and related resource requirements, the Secretary-General will bring such decisions and their implications to the attention of the relevant legislative bodies in accordance with established procedures.
- 9.22 The Programme's main expected accomplishments and indicators of achievement for the biennium 2004-2005 are detailed, together with required resources, under the programme of work, as well as under executive direction and management. The overall framework of these expected accomplishments and indicators of achievement is shown in table 9.1.

9.23 The overall resources proposed under this section amount to $127,943,600, including a resource growth of $4,291,400, or 3.4 per cent. The changes reflected in table 9.4 below are summarized as follows:

- (a) Policy-making organs: a decrease of $664,200, which is the net effect of a series of reductions that are only partially offset by other additional requirements. The main reductions are owing to the discontinuation of provisions for the terminated Committee for Energy and Natural Resources, for the reduction in honorarium payments for members of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women, and for the resources related to the preparation of major conferences, including the Second World Assembly on Ageing and the World Summit on Sustainable Development. The partially offsetting increases relate to the expanded sessions of the Committee, the transfer of the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues from section 24, Human rights, and the provision of new resources to prepare for the follow-up to the Fourth World Conference on Women;
- (b) Executive direction and management: a decrease of $198,600 resulting from (i) a net decrease of $13,500 for posts, owing to: the establishment of one new Assistant Secretary-General post to head the first cluster of organizational entities consisting of the Statistics Division, the Population Division and the newly created Economic Monitoring and Assessments Unit; the establishment of one new P-5 post to provide support to the new Assistant Secretary-General post; the outward redeployment of two P-4 posts, one to the Executive Office and the other to the Information Support Unit; the outward redeployment of one P-5 post to subprogramme 3; the inward redeployment of one P-5 post from the former Division for Development Policy Analysis; and the inward redeployment of one General Service (Other level) post from subprogramme 1, to provide support to the new Assistant Secretary-General post; and (ii) a net decrease of $185,100, which results from reduced requirements for consultants ($109,300) and travel of the staff ($150,200) for the former Administrative Committee on Coordination, which are no longer required, and additional requirements for travel for the new Assistant Secretary-General for Development Policy Analysis and Information ($74,400);
- (c) Programme of work: an increase of $3,821,100 as follows: (i) $3,459,500 for posts reflecting full funding for the new posts (2 D-2, 1 D-1, 1 P-5, 2 P-4, 1 P-3, 7 P-2 and 1 General Service (Other level)) approved in the biennium 2002-2003; (ii) the establishment of one new P-5 post for a senior non-governmental organization officer; three new posts for the secretariat of the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues, as described in the report of the Secretary-General (A/C.5/57/26); five new posts for the new Financing for Development Office (1 new P-5 post to perform the functions of chief of section/unit on follow-up to the Monterrey Consensus at the international and national levels, 1 new P-4 post for the focal point for the engagement in the financing for development follow-up process of Governments; 1 new P-3 post for focal point for building partnerships with civil society and the private sector for the Financing for Development Office; and 2 new General Service (Other level) posts to provide technical support for maintaining and updating the financing for development web site on the Internet); and reclassification of one General Service (Other level) post to a General Service (Principal level) post in the Office of the Director for the Division for the Advancement of Women. The extensive redeployment of posts, that followed the restructuring of the Department is explained under each subprogramme and under executive direction and management and programme support; and (iii) $361,600 for non-post requirements resulting from increases for general temporary assistance ($117,400); consultants and experts ($121,300); travel of staff ($213,200); contractual services ($103,800); general operating expenses ($26,900); supplies and materials ($6,200); furniture and equipment ($3,700); and $19,100 under grants and contributions to the Subcommittee on Nutrition of the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination; and a decrease under grants and contributions of $250,000, representing the one-time grant in the biennium 2002-2003 for the International Research and Training Institute for the Advancement of Women;

- (d) Programme support: an increase of $1,333,100 relating to: (i) an increase of $730,000 for posts, owing to the full funding for two new posts at the P-2 level approved in the biennium 2002-2003 to support the expansion and further development of the Integrated Monitoring and Documentation Information System (IMDIS); and inward redeployment of two P-4 posts from the Office of the Under-Secretary-General (one to the Technical Cooperation Management Service for the provision of financial and administrative support to the Development Account projects administered by the Department of Economic and Social Affairs and the other for the continued development of IMDIS); (ii) an increase of $1,143,300 for the following non-post requirements: general operating expenses to cover the Department's requirements for rental and maintenance of data-processing equipment ($88,200); communications requirements ($504,200) in respect of "right to use" charges for each telephone or fax or modem extension, domestic and international long distance charges; maintenance and support of the local area network technical infrastructure, Integrated Management Information System (IMIS) e-mail and other electronic services equipment ($381,800); office expendable supplies and materials ($19,600); and acquisition and replacement of furniture and equipment ($149,500); and (iii) a decrease of $540,200, representing the discontinuation of provisions for general temporary assistance for the preparation of volumes of the Repertory of Practice of United Nations Organs, which is no longer required.

- 9.24 During the biennium 2004-2005, expected extrabudgetary resources amounting to $107,293,400, or 44.0 per cent of the total resources available to the programme, will supplement resources from the regular budget to finance various activities, such as technical advisory services, training, field projects and workshops. The estimated decrease (approximately $18.6 million), in comparison with the biennium 2002-2003 is due to: a continued decline in extrabudgetary resources from the traditional funding agencies (the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA)) for country project activities, owing to the financial constraints of those agencies, as well as the continued strengthening of national capacities to execute projects; a reduction in the projected level of contributions to the Trust Fund for Support of the Work of the Commission on Sustainable Development in the biennium 2004-2005, as the substantial increase in the contributions to the fund in the biennium 2002-2003 was related to activities in support of the preparatory process leading up to the World Summit on Sustainable Development; and completion of a number of projects financed from the United Nations Fund for International Partnerships (UNFIP) and difficulty anticipating at this stage the level of the contribution to be approved by UNFIP for the biennium 2004-2005.

- 9.25 The issue of publications as part of the programme of work has been reviewed in the context of each subprogramme. It is anticipated that recurrent and non-recurrent publications will be issued as shown below in table 9.2 and as distributed in the output information for each subprogramme.

9.28 The amount of $3,788,600, reflecting a net decrease of $664,200 for policy-making organs, provides for travel of representatives, members and experts; $1 per year honorarium payments to the 23 members of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women; and one-time provisions in the biennium 2004-2005 for consultants and experts and travel of staff, in

Its terms of reference, as set out in Council resolutions 8 (I), 8 (II) of 21 June 1946 and 1566 (L) of 3 May 1971, are to assist the Council in promoting the development of national statistics and the improvement of their comparability; coordination of the statistical work of the specialized agencies; development of the central statistical services of the Secretariat; advising the organs of the United Nations on general questions relating to the collection, interpretation and dissemination of statistical information; and promoting the improvement of statistical methods in general.
- 9.30 Bearing in mind General Assembly resolution 50/227 of 24 May 1996, on the restructuring and revitalization of the United Nations in the economic, social and related fields and the need to provide for more continuity in the decision-making and oversight of the global statistical process, and with the aim of enabling the Commission to follow up on the statistical implications of the major United Nations conferences and seminars, as well as the agreed conclusions of the high-level coordination segments of its meetings, the Economic and Social Council, in its resolution 1999/8, decided that the Statistical Commission should meet annually for a period of four working days in New York, beginning in 2000. The Council also decided that the Working Group on International Statistical Programme and Coordination, established by it in its resolution 1306 (XLIV) of 31 May 1968, should cease to function with immediate effect.
- 9.31 The thirty-fifth and thirty-seventh sessions of the Statistical Commission are scheduled to be held in 2004 and 2005, respectively.

Gender issues and advancement of women

Resource requirements (before recosting): $9,577,900

- 9.69 The subprogramme will be implemented by the Office of the Special Adviser on Gender Issues and Advancement of Women and by the Division for the Advancement of Women. The programme of work has been formulated on the basis of subprogramme 2 of programme 7 of the revised medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005 and has been reviewed, in draft form, by the Commission on the Status of Women, at its forty-seventh session. The Department will pursue the main objective of subprogramme 2 through a strategy that will build on providing effective support to intergovernmental bodies, integrating policy advisory services into the overall programme of work and expanding interaction and communication with civil society. In addition, the strategy will enable the subprogramme to play a more effective role in advancing gender mainstreaming, as well as in implementing system-wide the Beijing Platform for Action and the outcome of the special session by, inter alia, contributing to increasing the effectiveness of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women and enhancing inter-agency collaboration under the leadership of the Special Adviser.
- 9.70 The Special Adviser reports directly to the Secretary-General on gender issues, including progress made by departments and offices in the United Nations Secretariat and the secretariats of the United Nations system in mainstreaming a gender perspective into all policies and programmes; on the status of women in the Secretariat; on progress made to achieve the goal of having 50 per cent of Professional posts filled by women and related policies, strategies and activities; and on actions aimed at creating a more gender-sensitive working environment. The Special Adviser, assisted by the Focal Point for Women in the Secretariat, also facilitates, monitors and oversees the implementation of the special measures for the achievement of gender equality. Together they support and advise programme managers in their efforts to meet mandated General Assembly targets on gender balance and to participate in the development of a gender-sensitive and equitable working environment. The Special Adviser provides leadership to inter-agency collaborations in the area of gender mainstreaming at both the substantive and operational levels.

The Committee requested that a review of the issue of linking IMIS, IMDIS and BIS be conducted and its results included in the comprehensive progress report on the Organization's information technology strategy (chap. 1, para. 93).	In collaboration with the Office of Programme Planning, Budget and Accounts, and the Information Technology Services Division, a pilot interface has been constructed between IMIS and IMDIS to support integrated monitoring of development account projects (sect. 33 of the programme budget). of the recommendation*

The Committee requested that a review of the issue of linking IMIS, IMDIS and BIS be conducted and its results included in the comprehensive progress report on the Organization's information technology strategy (chap. 1, para. 93).

The Advisory Committee concluded that there was an urgent need for these matters of advisory services to be discussed in the context of the Administrative Committee on Coordination, the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs and the United Nations Development Group. Such discussions should aim at clearly identifying the roles of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, UNCTAD, UNDP and other agencies, including funds, programmes and regional commissions, in the delivery of advisory services to Member States, with a view to streamlining operations at the country level, avoiding duplication and achieving optimum and effective use of resources, whether from regular assessed budgets or from extrabudgetary sources (chap. II, para. IV.24).

The Committee stressed the need and importance of rigorous examination of the Department's publications programme by the intergovernmental bodies (chap. II, para. IV.31).

The Advisory Committee noted, however, that the capacity of IMDIS to monitor implementation performance is still limited. Standards do not currently exist for entering performance indicators or expected accomplishments, nor is it linked to the financial system. Moreover, the systematic entry of data

In collaboration with the Office of Programme Planning, Budget and Accounts, and the Information Technology Services Division, a pilot interface has been constructed between IMIS and IMDIS to support integrated monitoring of development account projects (sect. 33 of the programme budget). The interface relies on a regularly scheduled and completely automated procedure for downloading financial data from IMIS, which is then presented as part of the project record in IMDIS. If deemed useful in practice, the approach may be extended in future to other areas of technical cooperation.

The entities of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs are presently undertaking a comprehensive review of their operational work which will result in a report to the Deputy Secretary-General on technical cooperation activities of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs: a note on achieving greater coherence. Using the 10-cluster framework applied to the review of the entities budget proposals, the review is expected to result in cross-cluster conclusions on future directions in the Committee's technical cooperation activities.

The list of publications as part of programme outputs is submitted within the context of notes on programmes of work in 2004-2005 for relevant subprogrammes of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, to relevant Economic and Social Council functional commissions and committees.

The requested report was provided in A/57/478. Additional enhancements to capture additional data for the measurement of results and to link IMDIS to other budgetary and financial systems are under consideration and discussion between the Office of Internal Oversight Services and the Programme
